Chronic granulomatous disease (CGD) is a rare, life-threatening primary immunodeficiency. Its etiology is still obscure and is classified as a defect of the phagocyte NADPH oxidase. The phagocyte NADPH oxidase is the sole enzyme complex of neutrophils, monocytes, and macrophages that produces reactive oxygen species (ROS) and, thus, has a crucial role in the microbicidal capacity of these cells. It has been assumed that CGD is due to a malfunction of this 2edc1e01e8

Enjoyed the trial, but didn't see anything that actually alerted me to a problem. I tried to insert an account on the first tab, and it said there was nothing that matched. So I tried again, and it did detect the problem. It would also have been nice to have the same kind of alert on the front screen as it does when adding an account on the 'Accounts' tab. In any case, I wasn't able to complete the demo, because I simply couldn't understand the main menu.
