Making use of Snapping, you can quickly create a UI element or pattern from scratch so whether you are a web designer or a UI designer, these new tools will come in handy. In addition to new features, 2018 also marked the release of Photoshop's first content-aware design improvements to the Design Workflow. Introduced in Creative Cloud 18.7, the content-aware tools mean that you can drag and drop a photo onto your design to speed up your workflow especially when creating branded layouts. You'll also notice that your new photos are now labelled with a metadata tag such as "Product Plate" or "Brand Logo" which you may have to crop later down the line. Come 2021, you'll be able to change the metadata tag such as "Product Plate Front" or "Side-view" which will take you even closer to creating your final design. Other design improvements include the introduction of the PSD Template System and the new Content Aware Features.
