Ross is one of eight MLB players who will be considered for the 2012 Hutch Award. The award was established to recognize a player who gives back to the community while also giving back on the baseball field. Ross is one of 10 nominees for the Chicago South Side Community Service Award, and he joins a list of previous winners that includes Derrick Rose and Jose Bautista. "There are no numbers on a player that matter more than the three letters at the front of his name," White Sox executive vice president Ken Williams said. "Cody Ross is a three-time All-Star and Gold Glove winner with the type of reputation and respect in the game of the quality to warrant consideration for the Hutch Award. He has proven himself as a winner of the year-long community service project, and I am pleased to recommend him as a finalist." Ross is just the third White Sox player to be nominated for the award in the past seven years. The other two nominees are Alfredo Aceves (2008) and Dewayne Wise (2010). Ross is an annual All-Star and a three-time Gold Glove Award winner, making him one of the most decorated position players in the American League. Ross spent the entire 2011 season hitting.309 with a.403 on-base percentage, a.531 slugging percentage, 46 home runs, 121 runs, 90 RBIs and an AL-high 187 hits. Ross also made his sixth career All-Star appearance and was awarded his third career Gold Glove Award. The Chicago native has been an integral part of the White Sox' community efforts

I have a weird problem and I'd like a second opinion. I have an app that is meant to be viewed full-screen in landscape. In this specific mode, there are a few images that I'd like to have in a view. These images are off screen so that when the user rotates, they keep their place in the view. If I create the View with the right size, everything works perfectly 2edc1e01e8
